Health and wellbeing service

The Macmillan Social Prescribing Service can help you to improve your wellbeing and access services and activities in your local area.

The Macmillan Social Prescribing Service is available to residents of Tower Hamlets, City and Hackney, Newham and Waltham Forest

It supports you to:

- explore and define what is important for your wellbeing
- identify and access the local activities and resources you need

Local activities include:

- health and wellbeing programmes (e.g. walking groups, meditation groups)
- work and volunteering advice (e.g. local employment support projects)
- learning and social opportunities (e.g. art classes and gardening groups)
- practical support (e.g. debt, benefits and money management advice)
- support groups (e.g. parent, carer and patient support groups)

What support is provided?

Support can be provided by telephone or with a series of face-to-face sessions to explore your needs and support you to move forward.

Ask your nurse or doctor to make a referral to the Macmillan Social Prescribing Service or call the service to arrange your first appointment.
